108 Pantry launches an English Country Garden Afternoon Tea

108 PANTRY

108 Pantry, the chic dining space set in the heart of bustling Marylebone, is delighted to announce the launch of its English Country Garden Afternoon Tea. Created by Executive Chef Russell Ford, this quintessentially British Afternoon Tea has been designed to encapsulate an idyllic English country garden setting.

Guests are invited to celebrate the arrival of spring, the lengthening of days and warmer weather with this inaugural English Country Garden afternoon tea launching on 1st March, the first day of spring. 108 Pantry will be capturing the essence of the new season with a menu which takes inspiration from authentic British cuisine and embraces the four British seasons, using ever changing seasonal ingredients.

Highlights of the Spring English Country Garden afternoon tea include; Coronation chicken tartlet, Smoked salmon served on Guinness bread; Poppy seed and orange blossom and plain homemade scones all served with Devonshire clotted cream, Rhubarb jam and orange curd. Sweets include; Lavender panna cotta served with sparkling wine jelly and Chocolate and rose opera cake.

From grass meadow serving boards, terracotta pots, edible flowers, fork and spade fashioned cutlery and surroundings adorned in freshly cut flowers, guests are sure to be transported to a tranquil English Country Garden scene in the heart of London. The delectable Afternoon Tea will be served alongside 108 Pantry's assortment of rare teas and four English Sparkling wines. The wine selection includes: Sussex, Nyetimber Classic Cuvée; Kent, Gusbourne Estate Brut Rosé; Sussex, Ridgeview 'Cavendish' Brut 2014 and Balfour Estate.

Executive chef Russell Ford has created both a Classic and Gluten-Free afternoon tea offering, ensuring one of the nation's favourite traditions is available for all to enjoy.
